

Affordable Care with Self-Pay Rates

Whether you have health insurance or not, you can still get the care you need at Cascadia Health. If you do not have insurance, or if your insurance does not cover certain services, Cascadia Health offers prices on a sliding scale based on your income and family size. These prices are called Self-Pay rates. See the table below to find out what Self-Pay category applies to you.

		Self-Pay I	Self-Pay II	Self-Pay III	Self-Pay IV	Self-Pay V
How to use this table: Find your annual household income on the line with your household size. Keep in mind that when we say "household", we mean anyone that you would file taxes with, even if you don't typically file taxes. This could include a spouse, parent, child, or any dependent.	Family Size	0% to 100% Annual Income	101% to 150% Annual Income	151% to 175% Annual Income	176% to 200% Annual Income	200% + Annual Income

The above income rates are based on the Federal Poverty Level, which was updated February 2025. Service fees are updated July 2025. The Self-Pay rates are based on gross household income (income before taxes) and the number of people in your household. For each person in your household add $5,500 to yearly income, or $458 to monthly income. Do not include roommates as members of your household.
